The cantabile melodies of the clarinet in measures 91 to 192 should be richly ornamented. The ornamentation given in measures 92 to 100 are only suggestions and should not be followed literally. These suggestions show the barest minimum of ornamentation. From measure 101 onwards, only the skeletons are given. Playing only the skeletons is not acceptable: ornamentation must be added. The durations indicated should be strictly observed — the time-points for introducing the main melodic pitches are not free.

The soloist can use any techniques to ornament the melodies, the more the better. Extended techniques are encouraged. Inspiration can be sought in Arabo-Andalusian music and in Indian and/or Persian music, as well as in music from the Far East, and Jazz. The soloist must express some kind of audible process with the ornamentation, for example a growth in intensity, or in complexity, or a transformation of gestures.

The ornamentation of the melodies is an opportunity for the soloist to display a rich imagination and also a broad knowledge of melodies from various traditions.
